"Do you not know that your bodies are temples of the Holy Spirit, who is in you...? Therefore, honor God with your bodies."
1 Corinthians 6:19-20

Last week we started taking our spiritual pulse — Wesley's old practice of paying close attention to where he stood with God — by looking at our relationships. This week we turn to something just as foundational: our physical health.

How we're doing physically will always shape our spiritual pulse and our capacity for ministry and mission in the name of Jesus. We need sustainable rhythms of rest, exercise, nutrition, and margin.

One thing that stands out when you read about the life of Jesus is how intentional he was about his body. He rested. He withdrew for quiet reflection. He fasted. And he walked — a lot, which meant he got plenty of exercise simply by the way he lived. Wesley himself took this seriously too; he even published a small book of health remedies and fitness ideas he'd tested himself.

So how are you taking care of the body you've been given? Are you keeping up with healthy habits that honor God and support a long, full life? God wants us to enjoy this life and the creation we're part of, so take some time this week to consider how you're caring for your body.

Grace and peace,
Pastor Rick Ivey
